Dedication

To our Skipper, President JAMES E. COONS, under whose trustworthy guidance, The Good Ship Wesleyan, is sailing out on the eighty-sixth cruise of her career, we dedicate this book.

Foreword

Believing that College is a Voyage from the Dreamland of Yesterday to the Dawnland of Tomorrow and realizing that Youth, Romance and the Spirit of Glorious Adventure are most fittingly represented by Scholarship, Friendship and Leadership, we present to you the CROAKER of 1930.

Book One

PORTS

Proud of its age and glorious in its service,

OLD PIONEER

lives in history as the oldest in the West

Simple and austere, with its extensive rows of windows,

OLD MAIN

dominates the old campus

Replete with the history, tradition and undergraduate life of two institutions,

THE CONSERVATORY

stands, a huge, grey sentinel

Yielding to the demand for a greater Wesleyan,

THE OLD CHAPEL

will soon exist only in the memories of the days gone by

Rising from hallowed associations,

THE NEW CHAPEL

marks definitely the renaissance of our beloved Alma Mater

Serving well its purpose in building school spirit and athletic supremacy,

THE GYMNASIUM

is the center of collegiate life

Marking a forward step in the realization of the new campus,
THE LIBRARY
with its imposing columns, is a fitting memorial to those seven founders of P. E. O.

Ever young, ever old,

HERSHEY HALL

has become enriched with a quiet distinctive beauty

PILOTS

"Bill, why are College Trustees?" "Search me," countered Bill, "look like a bunch of mossbacks." "Mossbacks is correct," I muttered; "what do they know about college life?"

That was in 1881 and we were freshmen in Wesleyan. Wonderful years, those. A new world was opened up to us. Then came June, 1884. Came a whole flock of Junes. Then the other day of letter from CROAKER'S worthy editor asking a word of greeting from the Trustees.

Students of Wesleyan, the Mossbacks salute you! We're all for you and justly proud of you. Without you our college wouldn't be worth more than a pile of old bricks. But with you—and the thousands that trod this campus before you, and the unnumbered thousands who in the long centuries will come after you, this pioneer college is worth more to Iowa and to the world than all the tall corn our glorious old State ever grew or ever can grow.

Because we believe in you, we gladly carry heavy burdens and count it a high privilege. No other enterprise with which we will ever be connected will pay dividends as large or pay them for so long.

We admit we were born several decades too soon. We envy you with a glowing envy. We congratulate you on your wonderful new day—and the still more wonderful days ahead. Gladly would we turn back the clock and go along with you. You will go farther than we can ever go. You will be greater leaders than we can ever be. Because of your greater loyalty and greater ability this old college is steadily coming into its own.

After all, we are merely your trustees pro tem. In the deeper sense you are Wesleyan's real trustees, always and forever.

CARL S. WILLIAMS,
President, Board of Trustees.

For eighty-seven years Iowa Wesleyan College has sailed the seas of educational service. In these seas are flowing and ebbing tides, shifting sand-bars, and deadly rocks. Here are also a flotilla of nondescript, irregular, and irresponsible craft, and now and then a derelict driven with the winds and tossed. Many vessels have been lost since Iowa Wesleyan put out to sea but the captains and crews of this college have known and respected maritime law, have kept her gyroscopic compass from becoming magnetized by the iron of the vessel, have studied the stars and learned the use of the radio direction-finder, they have known charts and channels so that this vessel stands today fully equipped with capacity and power and crew, with eighty-seven years of experience ready for further service to those who venture forth to the ports of Knowledge, Skill, and Character.

This good ship has delivered to all ports of the world her precious cargo of trained young men and women. You will find them in South America, in many ports of Europe, in far-off India and China; you will find them in nearly all the states of the Union. When, by a sharp, strange turn in history, the Philippine Islands came under the care of the United States almost the first thing our government did was to send a shipload of American school teachers to those islands. Wesleyan graduates were on that ship and Wesleyan graduates to the number of two hundred and fifty are in the service of the schools of this country as teachers. Physicians, lawyers, journalists, ministers, social leaders, business and industrial leaders have sailed out to broad fields of usefulness over this line.

Who are now aboard? Look within this book for here are pictured their faces and here are reflected many of the happy and useful activities of the passengers and crew. Sometimes we sail on sunny seas and sometimes in raging storms but we're sailing on, we trust, with something of the spirit of the navigators who have found new worlds and made possible new and happy homes for the children of men. Those who would sail with us for the ports of Knowledge, Skill and Character, all aboard!

James E. Coons, President.

In this new yearly log book of the stately old ship, Iowa Wesleyan College, one of the crew herewith sends heartiest greetings to all those who from nearby or distant shores, or from other crafts have watched with interest or even solicitude the fortunes of this ship.

A fine company of estimable youthful passengers as well as a thoroughly trained worthy crew we carried again on board this year. As a whole we have sought only for truth and never have we swerved far from the true course, for ever and again have we taken our bearings from the great scholars and seers of all the ages. As individuals we have kept the compasses of our hearts sensitized to the eternal principles of righteousness; nor have we starved our souls as we progressed intellectually. We have kept our eyes and our hearts open to the materially and spiritually beautiful, and our ears and our souls attuned to the harmonies on earth and beyond.

In the course of the year we have encountered some storms but we have weathered them all, and have come out of them the wiser, and, we hope, the better. We have been supremely loyal to all the worthy traditions of our glorious past, and yet have been courageous enough occasionally to get rid of the barnacles retarding our advancement.

We shall continue on our course even if necessary through unchartered seas, with high hopes and firm determination, but ever onward, ever forward.

ENCOUNTERS

Coach Glen A. Bingham, a man whose thorough knowledge of athletics and whose brilliant personality place him on a par with the best of coaches. His advice seldom fails to remedy a difficult situation and he always has a word of advice on the tip of his tongue. The past life of "Bing" shows an excellent background for the coaching profession. At Denver University he was an all-around athlete and in his senior year was chosen end on the All-Rocky Mountain football team. During the war he served as a Lieutenant in Uncle Sam's great army. After the war he entered the coaching game and soon gained recognition on his splendid ability. He came to Wesleyan from Roosevelt High, Des Moines, where he turned out championship teams. Everyone knows of his brilliant work in resurrecting athletics at Wesleyan. We should be proud of such a man and back his efforts to the limit.

WESLEYAN LETTER CLUB

The Wesleyan Letter Club, one of the most active and valuable organizations on the campus, is composed of all men who have won an honor "W" in any branch of sports. The dual purpose of the club is to raise Wesleyan's athletic standards and to aid in securing new students for the school. One of the most important activities of the club has been to take charge of the High School District Tournament held in the Wesleyan gym.

FOOTBALL—the great game that dominates the fall sports menu—football—the game for men of brain and brawn—football—for fans who love keen, hard-driving competition. At Wesleyan, as in every other school of today, the gridiron justly claims the interest and willing support of everyone on the campus. A revival of the determination to "win for Wesleyan" has brought to us a spirit of which we may be zealously proud. The entire squad works to develop the very best team possible. It was not just those eleven men who beat Parsons—but all Wesleyan represented by her powerful gridiron warriors—that succeeded in defeating the jinx. May the new spirit guide us to many more well-earned victories.

1928 FOOTBALL REVIEW

When Coach Bingham gave his initial call for football men the prospects were exceedingly bright when thirteen letter men responded to the call. With these men and a wealth of Freshman material on the practice field it looked as though a conference championship team was going through its daily workouts. But old man "jinx" was hovering about the camp waiting for an opportunity to get his first victim. Kenneth Strah, stellar tackle on the 1927 team, was the first to be sent to the sidelines for the remainder of the season. Strah dislocated his knee in one of the preseason scrimmages. A few days later, Sutphen, a guard, broke his nose, putting himself on the bench for the first few games. As the season wore on, more met up with injuries and were forced out of the game.

The first game of the season was played with Saint Ambrose College, at Davenport. Four new men appeared in the opening lineup, Hilton, Tackleson, Meier, and Rambo. The playing on both sides was "ragged", with both teams gaining at will on each other. The "Tigers" showed a tower of strength in the opening moments of the game by making five successive first downs on the "Saints", but weakened as they neared the goal line. Wesleyan's only touchdown was the result of a long pass, and several line plunges by Berry. On the defense, Scranton was the outstanding player, stopping a great many of the plays before they were even started. The third major casualty of the season came in the third quarter when captain Woods dislocated some ribs. Owing to this injury Woods was forced out of the game until the latter part of the season. Score; Wesleyan 6—Saint Ambrose 13.

Next on the list of opponents, came State Teachers college. This was Wesleyan's first appearance on their own field and everyone looked forward to it with great expectations. The game was fast and hard-played throughout with the Teachers doing the offensive work and Wesleyan the defensive. The field was in very poor condition, being rather soggy after a heavy rain, giving the "pedagogists" with their heavier team a decided advantage over Wesleyan. The Teachers suffering from the stinging defeat handed to them by Coe college the Saturday before and a moral victory from Wesleyan in 1927 came on the field with a determination to win and to get all they could as was indicated by the score. Score; Wesleyan 0—State Teachers 31.

Homecoming and Central college, of Pella, were the next important features on the slate. At this affair the "Tigers" pleased the "Homecomers" by setting the "Dutchmen" down a notch and winning by a comfortable margin. Tackelson used his passing arm to the best advantage in this game by hurling the ball to Hilton and Berry for long gains and touchdowns. Wesleyan was constantly pushing her opponents toward their goal line and her defense could be likened to a stone wall. As the final gun roared the "Dutchmen" found themselves trailing the "Tigers" by a large margin. Score; Wesleyan 20—Central 0.

The Central shut-out was followed by three more of the same nature. The second of the series was administered to Culver-Stockton, at Canton, Missouri. The game was played in a cold drizzle, making fumbles quite a frequent occurrence. The first touchdown was the result of a long pass from Tackelson to Bradshaw and an off-tackle run by Tackelson. The extra try for point was made good by a pass. This was made in the first few minutes of the game. The last was made in the final period, when Tackelson returned a Culver punt some fifty yards and laid the ball on the opposite side of the chalk. The team and some hundred supporters returned home with dampened spirits to prepare for the "Quaker" clash which was to follow the next week. Score; Wesleyan 13—Culver-Stockton 0.

The next week Penn college appeared upon the Wesleyan gridiron with a very impressive reputation. The reputation, however, did not last long, for in the initial period Tackelson with perfect interference cut through the line and sprinted forty yards for six points. The try for point was made good by Rohde's toe, thus making things look rosy for Iowa Wesleyan. The teams lined up, kicked off, and started to play again, when the "Quaker" quarterback thought it would be fitting and proper to call a pass. The pass was pulled, but proved quite disastrous when Hugh Hilton "snagged" it and laid it on the spot that would make Wesleyan thirteen points. Rohde was again the hero, for a minute, as his place kick sailed between the goal posts and bounced off Hershey hall. The process of starting the ball game was gone through once more when the same situation occurred for the second time. This time Uffleman plunged toward his goal line with the ball neatly tucked under his arm. The remainder of the game was played more closely with both teams trying for touchdowns via line smashes, neither meeting with any success. Score; Wesleyan 20—Penn 0.

The last of the shut-outs was dealt to Graceland college, at Lamoni. The game was to be played on Saturday afternoon, but due to Iowa mud the team did not arrive upon the battle field until after all the natives of Lamoni had been refunded their few shekels and had left in disgust. It was agreed to play the game the following Monday and in the encounter Wesleyan was able to get three touchdowns, two points after touchdown, and a safety. Score; Wesleyan 22—Graceland 0.

The next game was with a non-conference team, Still college at Des Moines. The game was played at the capital city and was a supposedly easy encounter. But unfortunately for Wesleyan, Still had in her possession a horseshoe and a rabbit's foot; at any rate the Osteopaths came off the field with the long end of the score. Coach did not start his first string in this fray, but saved them for a more important game the following week. Score; Wesleyan 0—Still 13.

The climax to seven years of praying, hoping, planning, cheering, and other outbursts came to pass on the "Turkey day" game when Wesleyan met her arch rival the Presbyterian college located in the neighboring town of Fairfield. Nerves were taut as the opposing tribes came upon the field of reckoning. All the "W" alumni, who were seated in a section of their own, cheered, and made whoopee as they saw their colors going through the manuevers of warming up. The first quarter of the game was played "nip and tuck," but as it ended all critics would have given it to the "Tigers." The second quarter was started and old man injury swept down on the Wesleyan team and carried to the sidelines Benson, regular guard. The Presbyterians or "Wildcats," as they call themselves, seized the opportunity and started a march toward the Wesleyan goal line but as they neared the goal, the line held, and captain-elect Uffleman's adept, educated toe sent the ball to safer quarters. The second time it became necessary to do this the punt was blocked resulting in a safety and two points for the opponents. The half ended in a few minutes. The second half started and the sensation of the day happened when Tackelson sent two well directed plays to the right and then a pass to Berry, speedy fullback, to the left. The "Wildcats" were caught completely off guard and Berry streaked 52 yards and across the chalk. The rest of the game was all in Wesleyan's favor and she finished the most successful season in years. Score: Wesleyan 6—Parsons 2.

SANDBURG Tackle

A HARD, tense moment, the toss-up, a rush and flash of lightning-quick bodies, accurate passes by well-trained muscles, a clever shot and the game is on. Back and forth throughout the entire cage contest, the lead changes in a second's time. Now ahead, now trailing, a resistless urge to go on, to score, to win. Men who engage themselves on the basketball court must possess speed, accuracy, endurance, and poise. It is a game of science, requiring instinctive action that results only after long practice and proper habits of the floor. Wesleyan's squad attained success in all these branches of the sport and by that same old spirit of "winning for Wesleyan," brought into action its very best technique to meet the occasion and to finish a very creditable season in the conference competition.

Captain William Zillmer

"Jigger" had "tough luck" with injuries which kept him from going at his usual fast pace.

DALE CARIS

"DeDe" was noted for his individual guarding ability and all-around floor work.

BASKETBALL REVIEW

A brilliant array of basketball material reported to Coach Bingham at the close of the football season and immediately settled down to the task of learning the fundamentals of college basketball. "Old Man Jinx" did not bother the squad to any great extent. Three letter men, several reserves of last season, and a variety of prominent high school basketball men furnished Bingham with plenty of talent from which to pick a team.

During Christmas vacation, three practice games were played in which Bingham used his entire squad in order to get a line on individual abilities. No serious effort was made to win these games.

The regular scheduled season opened with Penn at Oskaloosa. This was a conference game which the Quakers won by a single point, 28 to 27. The Tigers led most of the game, but inexperience coupled with some "tough luck" brought about their defeat.

Culver-Stockton of Canton, Missouri, placed a team of "six-footers" on the Wesleyan gym for the first non-conference game. The main feature of this game was the scoring of Lander, one of the best centers in Missouri. Allender was on a scoring spree in the first half, making sixteen points. The Missourians won 37 to 30.

The well-known "Dutchmen" of Central were Wesleyan's first victims of the season. This victory gave us a .500 pct. standing in the conference. Score; Wesleyan 33—Central 26.

ALDEN BRUHN

"Bill" was handicapped by size, but his handling of the ball was on a par with any player.

HUGH HILTON

Hugh was high scorer of the team, averaging 9.1 points each game.

Graceland offered little opposition in the next game and the Tigers scampered away with a 36 to 12 victory.

The conference champions of the preceding season, St. Ambrose, defeated a tired bunch of Wesleyan boys in the next game. The team left early in the morning of the game and arrived in Davenport one hour before game time. Without proper relaxation the Tigers went into the game and played the "Saints" even, for the first three quarters, but lack of endurance caused by the hard trip and laxity in training told on the team. St. Ambrose 36; Wesleyan 25.

A gamble on a new combination by Bingham and some excellent basketball strategy on the part of Coach Devine of Parsons resulted in a victory for our ancient rivals. Parson's usual style of fast-breaking offense was changed to a stalling game which completely upset the Wesleyan team during the first half. However, in the second half, the Tigers succeeded in tieing the score and then obtained a four point lead with but a few minutes left to play. At this point, Olin, Parson's captain, who had been on the bench, entered the game and made four baskets in rapid succession. Final score, Wesleyan 32; Parsons 36.

Bingham had organized another combination to send against Upper Iowa. In this combination, he placed all hopes of success in keeping up the morale of the squad after the defeat by Parsons. The first half of this game was a draggy affair, few thrills of a basketball nature being produced. Hilton and Caris did some accurate basket shooting in the second half and the "Northern" team was subdued 35 to 23.

EDWARD CARTWRIGHT

"Ed" covered the floor in great style and his playing under the basket was outstanding.

CLAYTON JONES

"Katy," small, fast and shifty, gave Wesleyan many a point through his accurate basket shooting.

One hundred and thirty miles over slippery, ice-covered roads did not stop the Tigers from giving Culver-Stockton a taste of what they had previously given us—a defeat. The starting five men played throughout the whole game and gave an excellent account of themselves. Score, Wesleyan 31; Culver-Stockton 26.

The last non-conference game of the season was with the Western Illinois Teacher's College. This team ranked high in the "Little Nineteen" conference, composed of schools that annually give "Big Ten" schools stiff competition in basketball. Western 35; Wesleyan 30.

The Quakers failed to "Quake" enough to win in their second meeting with us. The score at half-time was 23 to 18 with Wesleyan leading. In the last half the lead changed several times until with four minutes to play and Wesleyan leading, a beautiful stalling game was carried out by the Tigers for the remainder of the game. Wesleyan 37; Penn 32.

St. Ambrose, Luther and State Teachers, were having a nip and tuck battle for the conference title at this stage of the season. Central, the lowest standing team in the conference, beat St. Ambrose the night before the "Saints" met us. Ambrose came against Wesleyan knowing that they must win in order to remain in the running.

The game was hard-fought, but was slowed up by the large number of fouls that were called. Ambrose made seventeen free throws out of nineteen tries. Wesleyan out scored the "Saints" in field goals, but were not granted the permission of having as many tries from the free throw line. The whole team played as a unit; there was no individual star. Final score—Wesleyan 30; St. Ambrose 36.

LAWRENCE NELSON

"Ole" was a guard who seldom missed taking the rebound from the backboard.

WILBUR ALLENDER

Allender's specialty was "follow-in shots." He had a low percentage of "misses" under the basket.

The next two games were on the road. An even break was the outcome. Central was swamped by a score of 44 to 31. The team's offense was running in high gear with Hilton leading the scoring. Des Moines University beat us 31 to 29 in a heart-breaking game which Wesleyan led until the last minute of play.

A victory over Parsons—nothing could be better to close a successful season.

The game started with Hilton caging three baskets in rapid succession. Caris and Cartwright added to the score and at half-time, a substantial eleven point lead was built up, making a score of 26 to 15. Parsons put on a rally that tied the score at 26 "all" in the first ten minutes of play in the secondhalf. The "Tigers" seemed dead on their feet. Time was taken out and immediately upon play, the team began to "function" in the proper manner. Bruhn was substituted into the game and immediately caged a basket. Cartwright and Caris followed with some deliberate shooting which placed the game "on ice". The gun went off and Parsons was beaten 34 to 29.

An even break was the result of the season's play. The conference standing of the team was five won and five lost. Of the fourteen scheduled games, seven were won and seven lost. Wesleyan led the conference in offense. Next year, watch Wesleyan's basketball team!

CHARLES EGGLESTON

"Eggie" was a hard worker and an excellent long-range shot.

ANCIENT Greece gave to the world many athletes of enduring fame. Founders of the Olympics, the records of her great men are criterions for track and field activities even today. Each spring finds greatly increased effort on the part of younger athletes to surpass the splendid records of their predecessors. It is this unrest and constant endeavor to better old marks that gives zest to track and field competition.

Tennis, too, is a highly specialized game for individual and team competition. It requires a preciseness of action and accuracy of stroke. Wesleyan's superiority was shown in the winning of the Conference singles championship and the production of a splendid doubles team.

Though new to athletics at Wesleyan, gymnastic stunts have developed rapidly the past year. A galaxy of undiscovered stellar performers appeared to form a surprisingly able team of gymnasts. The future points toward a greater interest in this branch of athletics.

1928 TRACK REVIEW

Failure to register in the victory column did not prove an unprofitable track season for the Wesleyan squad in 1928. Several individuals did commendable work on the cinder path worthy of mention. At the indoor meet, Zillmer shared first place with a Parsons man in the high jump and later, in the Parsons dual meet, he divided first place points with Gooch, a teammate.

Woods, a dash man, was high point winner of the squad for the season. He scored 15 units against Graceland, a meet which the "Tigers" lost by a bare 3 points.

Captain Berry's specialty was the 440-yard dash which he won in several dual meets.

Joe Long, diminutive hurdler, produced some excellent form in running the high and low "sticks," which netted several scores to Wesleyan's account.

Gooch, a freshman, went to the conference meet and returned with a first place in the high jump. He hit his stride the latter part of the season and from all indications should be going strong in 1929.

The half-mile relay team composed of Tackelson, Bradshaw, Berry, and Woods placed fourth at the Drake Relays in the college section of that event.

It may be readily seen that the 1928 squad lacked balance. Absence of distance and weight men resulted in the loss of meets that could easily have been won had the proper balance been present. However, the 1928 season was not a failure as many prospects were produced who will show up in future years for the Wesleyan track team.

1929 TRACK PROSPECTS

What will be the outcome of the 1929 track season? If we knew, it would be broadcasted in the 1930 CROAKER. We are going to press too soon to expound on the triumphs of Wesleyan's track team; however, some dope can be given on the prospects.

Captain Tackelson with eight other lettermen and a horde of freshmen are working hard on the cinder-path for the strenuous schedule that lies ahead.

Dash events will be well taken care of this year with ex-Captain Berry, Clint Woods, and "Tack" available. Wesleyan's weakness in track, distance runs, should be removed to some extent by the presence of two promising freshmen, Kinkade and Espy, who hail from the coal-mining regions of Centerville. Kinkade did some excellent running in high school and gives good promise for college competition. Two-mile men are scarce; however, Bob Wilson is turning in fair time for that event.

Big, husky men who can heave the shot and discus have been badly needed in past years at Wesleyan. Plenty of such men are available this year, but they all lack the polish necessary to throw the well-known weights enough distance to place in conference competition. Bingham may develop one of these men before the first meet is held.

Joe Long should be "in" this year hopping the "sticks." He has the ideal form of a hurdler, but a slow start hampers his time. He will be assisted by a freshman, Bone, a Prison City product, who undoubtedly will win points toward meet victories.

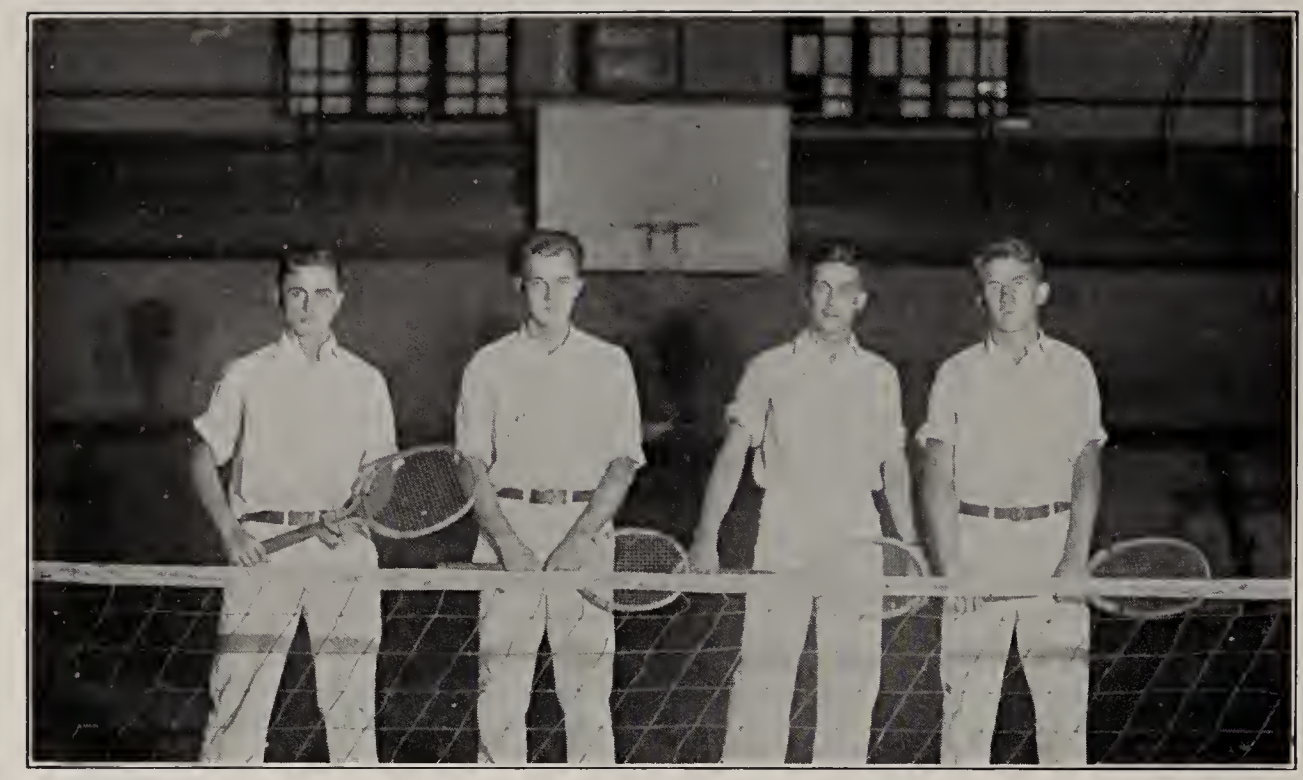

In the various jumps, Gooch seems to be the main stay. He should win the high jump with ease in a majority of the season's contests. He is also adding distance to his broad-jumping efforts. "Jig" Zillmer and Bradshaw are also making fine pre-meet showings in both the jumps. Lepley and Dresser are lettermen who should show up well in the pole vault after a previous year's experience.

A veteran half-mile relay team composed of Tackelson, Woods, Bradshaw, and Berry should be about the best in the conference this year. The mile relay team needs another man to give it conference strength.

At the indoor meet held at Des Moines early this spring Wesleyan scored seven and a fraction points. Lack of an indoor track hampers Wesleyan's chances to ably compete in an indoor meet. Woods took second in the 50-yard dash and "Tack" finished fourth in the same event.

Bone won third in the low hurdles. Zillmer and Gooch tied for third in the high jump and Lepley tied for the same place in the pole vault.

Bingham will select about five men to take to the Drake Relays the last of April. Should any of these men show, place or win, as the race-track parlance goes, Wesleyan should be immensely proud.

TENNIS

Tennis was thoroughly established as a successful minor sport at Wesleyan by the fine showing of the 1928 squad. Tennis interest had not been high until last spring when Wesleyan was represented by a squad of "racqueteers" that equaled the best in the conference.

The squad was headed by Dale Caris, a freshman, who brought fame to himself as well as to the school by winning the Iowa Conference singles championship. He had an enviable record of never having played a deuce set, four games being the most an opponent ever ran up on him in one set during the season's play. Hills, number two on the squad, was put out of the conference by the man that Caris beat in the finals. Hills and Caris paired for doubles play in a fine manner. Gottschalg and Musgrave completed the squad and ably assisted in winning matches through their persistent hard playing.

Nine matches were on the 1928 schedule, but three of these were cancelled for various reasons. Four matches were won—Central, Parsons, and two contests with Carthage. In one of these, Parsons was "cleaned" by a 5 to 1 score. The first meet with Penn resulted in a tie match, Caris and Hills winning their singles and doubles. Later at Penn the Quakers gave Wesleyan the only defeat of the season, 4–2. Sure wins from Parsons and Central would have been in order had not these schools cancelled their meets.

In the Conference meet, held at Simpson, Caris mowed down men from Western Union, Penn, and Columbia to reach the final match with Meyers of Columbia. Meyers gave the Wesleyanite a hard fight, but by heady and persistent playing, "DeDe" won 6–3, 6–4, for the championship of the Iowa Conference.

Hills was put out of running in the second round by Meyers after winning from a Western Union man in the first round. Hills and Caris lost their doubles match to the meet winners, Western Union, in the first round.

Prospects for this year's tennis team are exceedingly bright. The entire squad of last year is back and a supply of freshmen is on hand to offer some stiff competition to the veterans.

GYMNASTICS

"Buck" Lockridge, fresh from the University of Illinois summer session for coaches, instituted gymnastics into the physical education department this year for the first time at Wesleyan.

Young men who previously were afraid to come near the gymnasium are now seeking admission to the various gym classes.

A stunts class was formed which entertained basketball fans at half-time of all the important basketball games the past season. McAllaster, Boshart, Rukgaber, and F. Seitz displayed some excellent work on the rings, bars, and mats.

"Buck" has more than filled his position as physical director the past season and he is to be congratulated on the fine work he carried out.

ANCIENT Greece knew and practiced what modern society is just coming to realize—the value and importance of athletics for women. Following this period, their mighty heritage waned until the twentieth century, when modern woman threw off the shackles of twenty centuries. Today our colleges and universities have established departments of physical education for women. It insures the health essential to a highly organized society and instills a spirit of honor and fairness in social dealings that are all-important to the progress of intellectual as well as physical well-being.

Wesleyan has taken notable strides in this field. A well organized and highly active department offers many advantages to the college woman. It is well worth whatever effort is necessary in developing athletics for women.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

The Women's Athletic Association, or W. A. A. as it is more often called, was founded on the Iowa Wesleyan campus in 1921 by a small group of girls who were interested in athletics.

W. A. A. makes physical health pleasurable; it stresses health and encourages the girls to promote both good eating and living habits in their school life. The second benefit derived from W. A. A. is the ability to coöperate. This is accomplished through the various games of soccer, volleyball, basketball, baseball and tennis. W. A. A. strives to train girls in the principles of fair play. A girl goes out to play the game; to do her best is the thing that counts. Every girl learns the true value of sportsmanship.

Membership is open to any girl in college who is interested in any of the sports and who has proven herself worthy by earning one hundred points before petitioning for membership. Points are earned by hiking, swimming and taking part in the various sports. The possession of a numeral, letter or a sweater is a goal to which every girl looks forward.

ON WATCH

THE social fraternities of the schools of today are united in the common purpose of giving to the men and women a bond of close and intimate friendship and in promoting the progress and welfare of both their group and of their university. At Wesleyan, their purpose has been fully realized, and they have a very definite and constructive part in the building of a greater Wesleyan.

Social fraternities on the campus are almost as old as the college itself, having been established in 1868. In three instances the local chapters were the first to be established west of the Mississippi, and all are the first chapters of their fraternity in Iowa.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

The Pan-Hellenic Council at Iowa Wesleyan is composed of two delegates from each sorority. The president and secretary are chosen by a system of rotation which allows each sorority to hold these two offices once within a period of four years. This small group forms a part of the large national organization which strives for inter-fraternity harmony and friendship.

THE honor fraternities and government groups play a very active part in Wesleyan life. Those men and women who are selected for membership receive the honor as a result of outstanding achievement and meritorious service in the several fields of collegiate endeavor. The number of these organizations with national affiliation is a tribute to the high standing of the school.

The departmental and campus clubs are representative of every phase of extra-curricular and scholastic activity. They make possible the association of like individuals into groups having common purposes and ideals and sponsoring similar projects.

IOTA PHI

Iota Phi is the local honorary scholastic fraternity which corresponds to Phi Beta Kappa. Eligibility to membership is limited to the seven highest in the junior class and the three highest in the senior class not already members. Membership in this organization means recognition of outstanding scholastic ability and it is an honor worthy of all the work that is necessary before admittance.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Student government on the campus is in the hands of the Student Council, an elective body composed of thirteen students. The senior and junior classes each have four representatives, the sophomores have three and the freshmen two. The council with the help of a faculty committee tries to interpret student opinion and handle any matters which may arise in a way satisfactory to both students and faculty.

BETA PI THETA

If someone calls a mistake a "faux pas" or says "n'est-ce pas" in a question-mark tone of voice, the lady may not be putting on airs, she is probably a new member of Beta Pi Theta, national French fraternity, whose aim is the mastery of the French language. The study of French literature, art and music makes the monthly meetings interesting.

BETA BETA BETA

Beta Beta Beta, national honorary biological fraternity, was founded at Oklahoma City University, Oklahoma, in 1922.

Eta Chapter, established at Iowa Wesleyan College in 1926, was the sixth chapter to be granted. Chapters are limited strictly to standard colleges and universities.

The purpose of Beta Beta Beta is to stimulate sound scholarship among students of the biological sciences; to promote the dissemination of scientific truth; and to further biological investigation.

KAPPA PI

Kappa Pi, national honorary art fraternity, established here last May, has, in the one year of its existence on the campus, proven itself a worthy organization. In the winter the fraternity coöperated with the women's clubs of the city in bringing to Mt. Pleasant a $45,000 art exhibit, secured from the American Federation of Art, at Washington, D. C. Later in the year, Kappa Pi sponsored an interesting poster exhibition. Only those who have had at least two years' work in the art department and have shown exceptional talent in art, are eligible to membership. Mrs. Lines is a member and faculty adviser of the fraternity.

Y. W. C. A.

An organization that does a great amount of work with very little praise is the Young Women's Christian Association. At the beginning of the year, each freshman girl is given a "Y. W. big sister"—who helps her get started in college. The Y. W. trains freshmen for work in the organization by means of freshmen discussion groups and the freshmen commission. Regular Y. W. meetings are held every Friday morning. It cooperates with the Y. M. C. A. to keep alive all-college spirit by giving parties during the year. The Y. W. also does work outside the campus, helping support Gingling College in Nanking, China.

THE student publications are an extremely essential part in the extra-curricular work at Wesleyan. The various publications are very helpful in giving the students constructive training in practical writing, reporting, compiling and editing. The Iowa Wesleyan News has been a consistent winner in the Iowa Collegiate Press Association as a superior paper. With the publication of the CROAKER an annual event and the raising of its standard to the yearbooks of larger universities, and with the instituting of a first-class humor magazine, the Woofus, the trilogy is complete and Wesleyan is gaining a reputation for excellent journalistic work.

Even as the good ship Wesleyan is sailing out on another cruise, so is her log book, the CROAKER. However, the CROAKER is sailing through uncharted seas as this volume is the first of the truly annual series. The fact that a whole year was lost to the Wesleyan files caused the Class of 1930 to determine that the Croaker should be an annual publication, rather than a biennial one.

Realizing that a definite plan was essential for a superior yearbook, the staff selected a marine theme, one excellently adapted to portraying the Spirit of Glorious Youth. With this in mind, all efforts have been made to secure beauty and to truthfully present the collegiate life of Wesleyan. The publication of a larger volume, the selection of the highest type of cover, the very distinctive and beautiful opening section, enlargement of old sections and addition of new ones, keeping the continuity of theme —all have been done in order that the Class of 1930 might contribute its share in the building of a Greater Wesleyan.

The Iowa Wesleyan News, the weekly publication of the students of Iowa Wesleyan, endeavors to bring to the students and alumni of the college those interesting happenings that come from week to week. Its aim is to give to the readers a true cross section of student life and activity. In doing this it sometimes brings joy to some while in the same page carries something that is not so joyous to others. In reading any college paper one should be able to see the college it represents through those things that appears in its column and that is the aim of the Wesleyan News to show Iowa Wesleyan as it is in its everyday life.

The "News" ranks high among the college papers of its kind in the state and it is our sincere hope that with the proceeding years it may attain a yet higher ranking among college newspapers and that it will be recognized as a vital part of Iowa Wesleyan College.

It's called the Woofus and is the criterion of real American wit and humor. The object is to create that low, rumbling laughter to echo throughout the halls and domiciles of Wesleyan. In each edition we have tried to show improvement and versatility until we have received the commendations and recognition of other prominent college humor magazines including the College Humor, which has reprinted some of our "stuff." Founded last year by the students it has come to occupy a permanent place in the life on this campus and it is the hope of the staff that it will continue to do so.

JOURNALISM SURVEY

The Journalism department of Iowa Wesleyan is endeavoring to build itself up to the prominent place it once held in journalistic circles. You will, of course, recall all of the prominent journalists who either attended or graduated from Iowa Wesleyan in years gone by who now hold prominent positions in the writing world. During the last few years the old quality has been returning and consequently the publications and writers' ability have been on the incline. At present there is the Wesleyan News which always did and always will come forth every week, the Wesleyan Woofus, comic magazine founded by enterprising young men of this institution last year, and the CROAKER which, this year, was made a yearly book instead of coming out every two years as heretofore. Does not this show progress?

Professor Kroll, head of the journalism department, is laying his stress upon writing. "To be able to write one must write," he says and puts this proverb into practice himself as well as teaching it to his pupils. Several students have prospered under this type of reign and have sold manuscripts, several have announced their intentions of becoming professional writers. Kroll teaches all types of writing work—newspaper, magazine, short story, article, play, poetry, and script. Our drawling, quick-thinking, journalistic head is a successful writer himself and seems well upon his way to national prominence. The one drawback is that he will leave us this year as he intends to devote all of his time to creating literature.

Prof. Merritt, through his courses in composition, is also encouraging an interest in creative writing.

Then we have Sigma Tau Delta, honorary journalistic fraternity, which offers prizes every year to the two freshmen who turn in the best written compositions. Such a contest attracts interest and always brings forth some real work.

We are convinced that the Journalism department of Iowa Wesleyan ranks upon an even basis with any similar department in the country. What more can you ask as a field than a weekly newspaper to display your wares in, a humor magazine to give laughing youth their desired and needed outlet, and a year book that portrays the life of the campus and serves as a market of concentrated, intensive journalistic efforts?

THE stage embraces the field of music, drama and forensics. Within the last few years, Wesleyan has been forging to the front with musical and dramatic productions of decided professional qualities. The Wesleyan band and orchestra and the summer concert company are due high praise in building an excellent musical reputation for the school. With the completion of a very modern and well-equipped stage, Wesleyan will continue to have even more high class presentations from the speech department and the college at large. The renaissance and success of the forensic department are further indicative of collegiate interest in cultural endeavor.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

The Conservatory of Iowa Wesleyan College was established in the year 1878 under the direction of Dr. Alexander Rommel, and continued with Dr. Rommel as director for forty years.

The Conservatory is an integral part of Iowa Wesleyan College. During all the years of its history, it has stood high and contributed much to the development of music in the state of Iowa.

The Conservatory is well equipped with pianos for studios and practice rooms.

The chapel organ is being rebuilt and will be one of the finest in this section of the state.

The courses in the Conservatory are comprehensive and adequate to furnish the student with theoretical and practical training necessary to insure future development as teachers and performers.

A four-year course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Music is offered. This year there will be four students to receive the degree. The three-year course in public school music is arranged in accordance with the standards set by the State Board of Education.

The professors in the Conservatory are thoroughly trained for their work and results are seen in the pupils who have graduated and are now representing the conservatory as teachers.

Practical work in piano, organ, violin and voice is carried on throughout the course.

Professor Mountain has endeared himself in the hearts of every music student as well as other students on the campus, by his ready smile and kindly spirit. He has a charming personality and has served the college in many ways, by his advice, which is always freely given, and by offering his own talents.

The musical organizations of Iowa Wesleyan College have always had a welcome in the churches of the Iowa Conference. This has been especially true of the Iowa Wesleyan Mixed Quartet which has represented the college on several occasions, taking complete charge of the service, including the music and a short talk by Prof. Mountain in the interests of the college.

A secular program was given by the organization which has been enthusiastically received in many places.

DRAMATICS

George Bernard Shaw's drama "Candida" was chosen by the class of nineteen twenty-eight as the senior class play. It was presented as a part of the commencement program with Miss Audrey Whipple playing the title rôle.

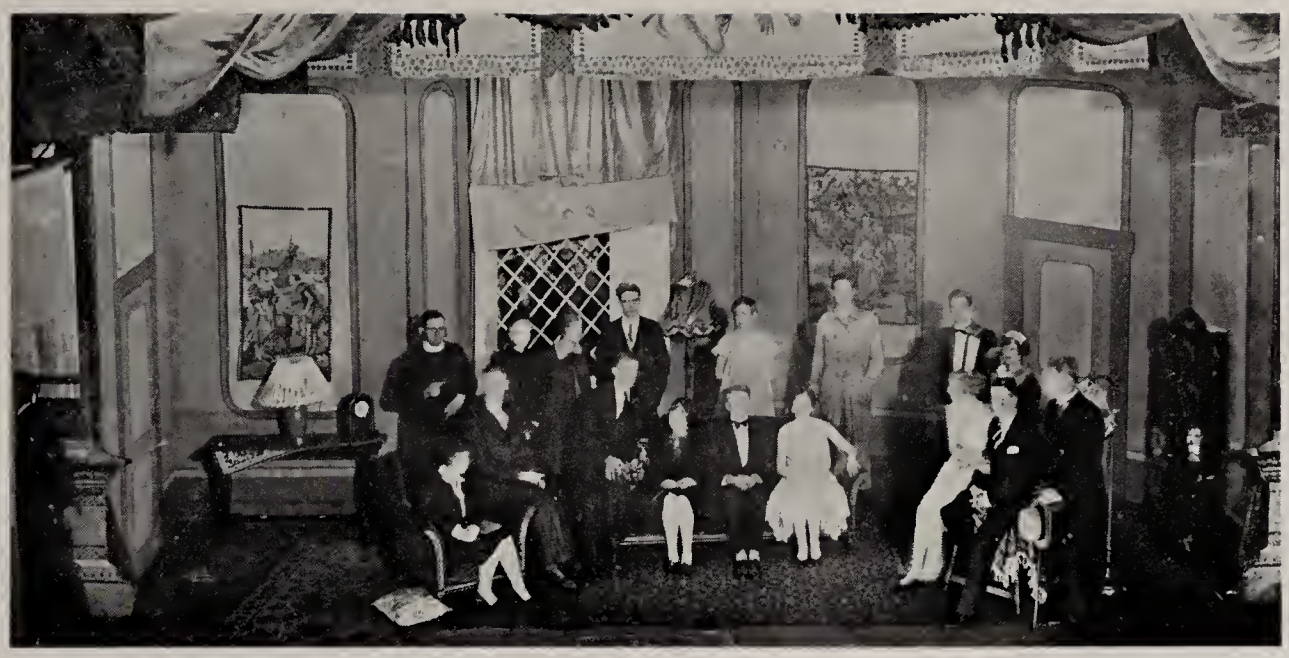

This year it is hoped that the senior class play can be presented on the new stage which is being constructed during the rebuilding of the chapel. Not only is the stage being greatly enlarged, but other equipment is being added which will facilitate play production. Modern electric equipment, several stage settings, and a purple velvet drop curtain decorated with a silver "W" have already been purchased by the college.

"Icebound," a Pulitzer prize play, by Owen Davis, has been selected as the commencement play and play rehearsals are in full swing.

"The Lion and the Mouse" by Klein was presented by Alpha Psi Omega early in December. While probably one of the most dramatic productions attempted by the speech department, it was exceptionally well presented.

It is a drama of a powerful man who loses to a girl, the sweetheart of his son. Mr. Lee, Miss Bair and Mr. Turner played these rôles with a convincing realism which marks the whole presentation. This play was also given to audiences in Burlington and Donnelson.

Because of the extensive forensic program and the lack of a stage the latter part of the year, no other plays were attempted. The year 1929-1930 will probably be one full of excellent dramatic productions.

FORENSIC SEASON 1929

The debate season for Wesleyan this year was a very full and prosperous one with nineteen debates scheduled. With a squad of fourteen appearing regularly for practice, it was decided to build up the forensic program by making contacts with schools covering a large area and bringing in teams of reputation and ability, many of whom had never debated Wesleyan.

Only four old debaters were back: Vera McElroy, Helen Johnson, Farron Turner and Rollin Pooler. Farron deserted us for oratory where he made a larger name for himself. Ralph Schutz, our orator of last year, came forward and proved himself a competent debater and thinker. Most of the squad were green, but made some show for themselves by sticking to the job and working hard.

Various types of debating were tried this year, having a split team debate with both Simpson and Shurtleff and an open forum one with the College of Emporia.

The outstanding debate of the season was with the men's team from Oklahoma City. This team went to the finals in the national convention of Pi Kappa Delta at Tiffin, Ohio, last spring. Trips were numerous for both men and women. The longest trip for the latter was to State Teachers and Cornell, while the men went to Simpson and Carthage. A southern tour, including four new schools, was taken by McGavic and Turner.

Very few three-man debates were held since the trend was toward two-man teams. Under the supervision of Pooler and Schutz, the green men were initiated into the talking sessions, while McElroy and Johnson took charge of the girls.

Turner, McElroy and Johnson are lost by graduation, but from all indications Wesleyan has a splendid outlook for next year. Both Pooler and Schutz will be back as well as the new men and women: Work, Tomlinson, Smith, McGavic, Bellit, Bauer, Sedgwick, Lockhart and Crane.

On April 10–13, Helen and Vera, Rollin and Ralph, four debaters, and Dorothy Sedgwick and Fred Miller as extempore speakers went to Des Moines for the regional convention of Pi Kappa Delta.

At this convention, each school or team debated twice, once on each side of the question. To be eliminated, the team must be defeated on both sides of the question. Our girls went to the semi-finals without a defeat; there Parsons bested us, and in a hotly contested debate Simpson took the convention. Therefore, the Wesleyan girls were adjudged as second winners, while Dorothy Sedgwick won first in extempore.

Since Wesleyan held the vice-presidency of the Iowa Women's Forensic League, the state oratorical and extempore contest was held here on February 15. In this we were represented by Miss Munster as orator and Miss Sedgwick in extempore.

On March 1, Jordon Work in extempore and Farron Turner in oratory were sent to Penn College for the state contest of the Iowa Collegiate Forensic Association. Turner was awarded first place with his oration "What Price War" and went to the interstate contest at St. Peters, Minnesota, on April 12. Here he was chosen as one of two men from the five states represented to enter the national contest at Evanston, Illinois, on April 26 under the auspices of the Northwestern School of Speech.

Fred Miller will enter the "Constitution" oratorical contest at Dubuque on April 27.

With this successful season, Prof. Dennis is to be congratulated. Next year's slogan is to be: "Watch us take the National at Wichita."

CURRENTS

COLLEGIATE life at Wesleyan means a multitude of pleasant times and memories. The life of the collegian begins even before registration, continues through the fraternity rushing activities, through the thrills of the football season, through the excitement of Homecoming, Thanksgiving and the Turkey Banquet, through the joys of Christmas and New Year's, even through the hectic days of examination week, through basketball and spring athletics, through the spring social events, through the rush of commencement and ends with a feeling of mixed thankfulness and poignancy. Campus life denotes a huge complexity of things, but it has come to represent to the Wesleyanite an essential and an exceedingly happy part of his undergraduate days.

FAVORITES

IOWA WESLEYAN is proud of her women, loyal in heart, courageous in spirit, beautiful in thought and strong in body as they are. The charm of femininity, beauty and grace of manner is symbolized by them, and with it are to be found the sound fundamentals of character. These representative Wesleyan Women are only a few of those whose ideals and whose characteristics are most precious and typical to our Alma Mater.

FOR THE WESLEYAN HALL OF FAME, THE CROAKER STAFF NOMINATES

Dale Caris—because he made three athletic letters his freshman year, and because he is the Iowa Conference Tennis Singles Champion; because he is an athlete who retires from the public view when the game is over; because of his good looks and engaging personality.

Nina Miller—because her remarkable voice has contributed much to the pleasure of Wesleyan music lovers; because she has an extremely likeable personality.

Max Berry—because of his outstanding ability in athletics; because his opponents like him; because he is one of the most democratic men on the campus.

Betty Rogers—because she has successfully combined music, athletics, science and scholarship; because ordinarily she doesn't say anything until she has thought it over pretty well.

Glenn Strieby—because his study is of first importance to him; because he is interested in building a better Wesleyan; because he is broad-minded.

Mildred Warren—because she is one of Wesleyan's most charming and beautiful women; because she doesn't capitalize on her popularity; because she is a good sport.

Bill Turner—because of his unusual record in oratory; because he is editor of the 1930 Croaker; because he does the seemingly impossible with a host of activities.

Elouise Rice—because those who know her think that she will some day be a famous singer; because she is industrious; because she has the courage of her convictions.

Denis Jones—because he is editor of the Wesleyan News and has had a hard job to fill; because he has said what he thought; because he is president of the student council.

Vera McElroy—because she has gained a reputation as a splendid debater; because she is dependable; because she is a leader among Wesleyan women.

Harold Tackelson—because he is a versatile athlete; because he has stamina; because he was chosen all-Conference quarterback; because his smile is always at work.

Viola Gustafson—because of her ready wit; because of her excellent scholastic standing.

Dick Lee—principally because of his interest and talent in dramatics; because of his ability as a cheer leader; because of his democracy.

Margaret Rommel—because she is extremely democratic; because she has a high scholastic standing; because she has many loyal friends.

FOR THE WESLEYAN HALL OF FAME, THE CROAKER STAFF NOMINATES

ANNA MARY KIRCHER—because of her remarkable ability as a pianist; because she takes criticism gracefully; because she has good taste in choosing and wearing her clothes.

CLINT WOODS—because he is a three-letter man; because he captained the football eleven that "did it"; because he was a consistent worker in soliciting new students.

LOUISE WEIBLEY—because of her gracious personality; because she is an artist of ability.

RALPH SCHUTZ—because he has the keenest of minds; because he has overcome almost unsurmountable difficulties.

CLEO ROBERTSON—because of her athletic prowess; because she is broadminded; because she has made a host of close friends by her congeniality.

LESTER UFFELMAN—because he came to Wesleyan with a reputation as a football player and lived up to it; because he takes his game seriously; because he is captain-elect of the 1929 squad.

MARGARET RECKMEYER—because she has a future as a writer; because she is intelligent; because she is indifferent to what the herd thinks.

SAM EWART—because he stuck to football when the chances of winning a letter were negligible; because he won the letter his senior year; because he has successfully combined scholarship, work and activities.

HELEN JOHNSON—because she has not received due credit for her excellent work in dramatics and forensics; because she is quiet and unobtrusive on the proper occasions; because she is Helen all the time.

KENNETH STRAH—because he is a hard worker and has a multitude of friends; because he is an athlete of ability; because he has personality; because he is a gentleman.

DOROTHY REICH—because she is almost universally well-liked; because she came back to school with a determination to build.

ELMER GOTTSCHALG—because he has shouldered responsibility; because he has a contagious personality.

WALTER SCRANTON—because he has been more than a preacher; because he is a sportsman and a gentleman; because he is sincere.

JOY HALL—because she has remained democratic after a year's sojourn at a southern school; because she combines music and a spontaneous conversation unusually well.

HUGH HILTON—because he has lived up to his athletic reputation; because he has greater possibilities.

PHILIP WESTON—who has great ability as a journalist; because he is determined to make good.

SEA FOAM

GREETING

There are croakers and croakers. We, being Juniors, and having had logic (some of us), can prove it if necessary. But don't look for logic in what is to follow. There are croakers we all like and croakers that none of us like; and there are all shades and variations between the extremes. You who have taken that memorable "Morning Bike Ride" will remember well the voices of the "frogs of all dimensions." Wasn't there something there to suit your fancy? Or, better yet, you Freshmen, take your best girl, and you alumnus, take "that old sweetheart" of yours down to Cole's pond on some moonlit evening during Commencement week (we haven't looked in the almanac to see if there will be a moon then). Then while you are looking at the reflection of the moon in the water and feeling good toward the world in general and yourself in particular, pause a moment and see if the situation would be complete without the chorus of croakers. They are of all kinds and conditions with voices to suit. Every one of them, from the youngster who has just been promoted from tadpoledom to the giant bullfrog, is essential and helps to lend enchantment to the situation.

But there are croakers which do not have webbed feet—we mean the "old croaker." It were better that a Junior Oration were hanged about our neck and we were cast into the depths of a frog pond than that we be related to, or like him.

Some good people have wondered just what kind of a croaker this newest one—this '06 CROAKER—was going to be. For obvious reasons they have not learned much. But now we are free to say that he is as jolly as that young croaker that was only a short time ago a wiggling pollywog; and he is as wise as the big bullfrog that talks like the E string of a bass viol. If you don't like him in the one mood try the other. Do not judge his croaks by the voice of a Patti nor his literary efforts by those of a Milton. If he were so disposed, he could no more duplicate their feats than they could duplicate his. We trust that you will be in a mood as uncritical as when you last stood on the bridge down by the pond and let the moon and the croakers persuade you that the world was yours—or soon would be.

No apologies are to be made for this CROAKER. It goes as the herald of '06. We could do better another time, which we would really like to do, partly because we have enjoyed it and partly because we could do it better. We have worked hard—just how hard we had better not tell for we might be Juniors next year if the faculty knew. We have encountered all sorts and conditions of encouragement. Seniors wagged their hoary heads and asked us if we knew what we were up against. Sophomores opened their eyes wide with wonder; Freshmen did not comprehend it at all. We wrote the "late committee on Alumni record" for a "Reminiscence" and he sent us one of those alumnus' examination papers to show how busy he was and said he was sorry we were "too late for the '05 edition of the record." We were at a loss to know just what he meant by that: whether a class with so much nerve was entitled to a place in the record, or whether, if we were alumni we would not be Juniors asking for "Reminiscences" and thereby stirring a guilty conscience for pranks done in Junior days, perhaps. Who knows?

But we are keeping(?) you from things which may concern you more personally, so we bid you look further and see how popular you are with '06.

THE WILES OF WESLEYAN

A Tragi-Comedy in Four Acts
With an All-Star Talking Cast

HELEN ZILLMER, wise in the ways of men, has decided that she doesn't want to be a farmer's wife after all.

CLINT WOODS, who has had a rather tempestuous career in love and with his dear boys. However, he has redeemed himself by captaining the 1929 varsity football team.

LOIS LOCKHART, a little country girl, who suddenly found herself showered with popularity and found it difficult to adjust herself to the situation. Brains.

HELEN MILLIGAN, queen of the May, and to all appearances, of Howard Hills. That is an uncertainty, of course, judging by the sisters.

BILL TURNER, whose collegiate accomplishment has been the raising of a real moustache. Maintains he has never been in love—with anyone else.

LUCILE BOILER, succumbs easily to flattery, especially when handed out by Peggy Bortell or by the soul stirring notes of John Lundgren. Sometimes called R. H. B.

CARTER RITCHEY, a disciple of Thomas C. and Phillip Andrew. 'Tis rumored that he has his own ideas and technique in certain things.

JACK THOMAS, good little, bad little Jack, dotes on astronomy. He has a Pi Phi past and an Alpha future.

JOY HALL, full of static, but quite frequently has a good number. Dates mean no more to her than to Mr. Dromedary.

ORLEANS WELLONS, who really ought to be with George White or a mannequin for Paul Poiret. She has made very few "faux pax's" in her methods.

MAX BERRY, who, after three years of indifference, has proved quite susceptible to the charms of a P. K. and to "She of the erring poudre puff".

VIOLA GUSTAFSON, grim and determined, had decided that a man's a man for all o' that. She has a very happy smile since she's been exonerated from writing Campus Lab.

THE WILES OF WESLEYAN

DOROTHY LOVITT, from the Pi Phi School of Beauty, is contemplating on her next move. Dorothy is ambitious, and usually successful. It.

THEODORE JOHNSON, of the Sig Ep branch of the Salvation Army, has been borrowed especially for this "talkie".

MILDRED WARREN, belle of the Alpha Zip islands, who has a ring of sincerity in her voice that tempts you to believe her. One has!

WAYNE EMRY, the perfect college comedian. Innocent and innocuous.

MEGAN RHYS, who is just now beginning to enjoy life after the martyrdom of being accused as a Campus Lab conspirator. Poor kid.

JOHN MCGAVIC, who has almost deserted Wesleyan screenland, for a new leading lady.

ANABEL CLARK, who, last year believed in Easter Eggs, Valentines, storks, et omnia. The management has not yet secured anyone to play opposite.

FRANK WILLIAM (BILL) CARR, an enigma to certain of the John Wesley co-eds. Has been known to fill a date.

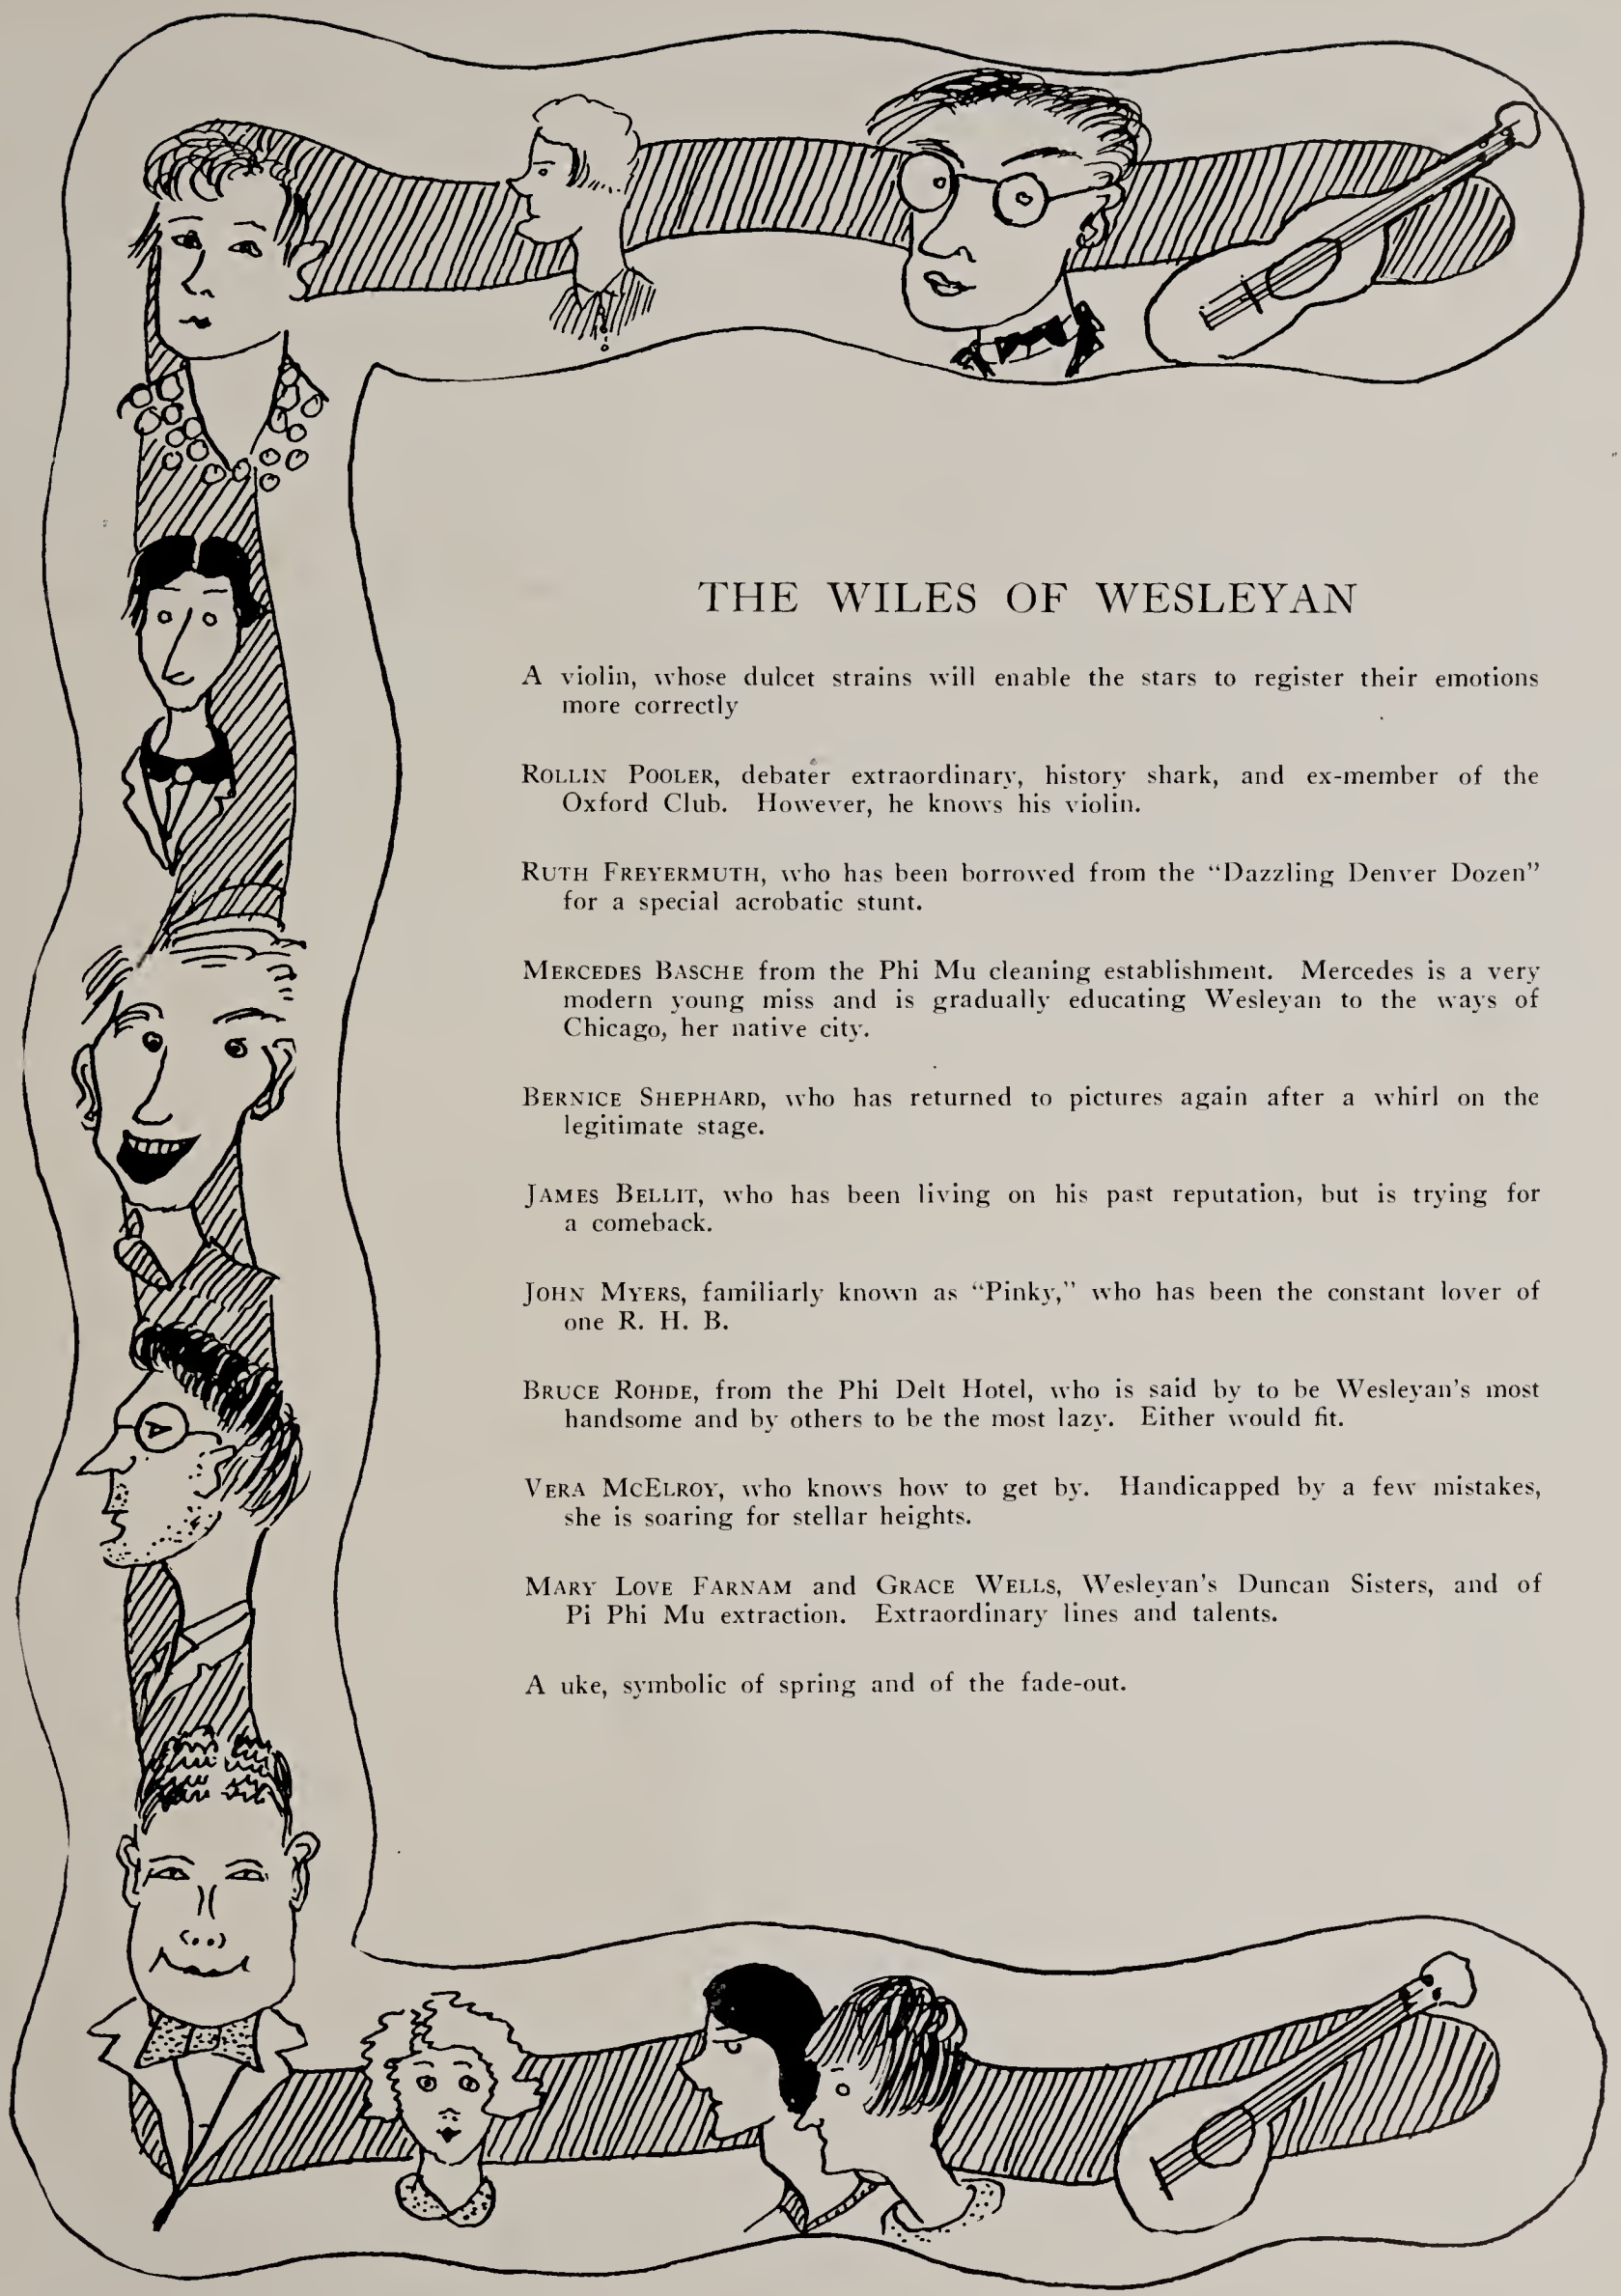

IRENE BOUCHER, who refuses to divulge information on her courtship. She should be an example to the inmates of Hershey Hall.

HOWARD HILLS, of the Theta Nu Savings Bank, who has a loan on his pin.

MARGARET RECKMEYER, who doesn't know whether she was made for the world or the world for her. Anyway, her attempts to arrive at a decision are painful.

IRMA BENTZINGER, of the Zeta sewing circle, who last summer chumped off with a heart, but for unkonwn reasons returned it and yet continues to hypnotize its owner.

THE WILES OF WESLEYAN

A violin, whose dulcet strains will enable the stars to register their emotions more correctly

Rollin Pooler, debater extraordinary, history shark, and ex-member of the Oxford Club. However, he knows his violin.

Ruth Freyermuth, who has been borrowed from the "Dazzling Denver Dozen" for a special acrobatic stunt.

Mercedes Basche from the Phi Mu cleaning establishment. Mercedes is a very modern young miss and is gradually educating Wesleyan to the ways of Chicago, her native city.

Bernice Shephard, who has returned to pictures again after a whirl on the legitimate stage.

James Bellit, who has been living on his past reputation, but is trying for a comeback.

John Myers, familiarly known as "Pinky," who has been the constant lover of one R. H. B.

Bruce Rohde, from the Phi Delt Hotel, who is said by to be Wesleyan's most handsome and by others to be the most lazy. Either would fit.

Vera McElroy, who knows how to get by. Handicapped by a few mistakes, she is soaring for stellar heights.

Mary Love Farnam and Grace Wells, Wesleyan's Duncan Sisters, and of Pi Phi Mu extraction. Extraordinary lines and talents.

A uke, symbolic of spring and of the fade-out.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Left to Right

FIRST ROW

ELIZABETH ELLENBERGER, the sunshine girl of Zeta Tau, who is mighty glad she is a Zeta, um, and a little bit more.

VI GUSTAFSON is our clever girl. Vi realizes the fact, but modestly refuses to smile at her own wit. Vi lives in Pi Phi hall—that may help.

HARRIET PIKE, who is a P. K. Who'd ever guess it? Harriet's interests are in Hoaglin's.

HELEN WHIPPLE, another little sister. Helen just loves to take the coquettish part in plays.

SECOND ROW

ELMA DAGGS who can play a violin, and has a high I. Q. This is indeed a rare combination.

ROSE TAFT, the town girl of Zeta Tau. Rose is interested in band work just now.

ADELINE SHREVE, who is ahead of the rest of the sisters. He has her Sig Ep heart and has already announced it.

CLEO ROBERTSON, the athletic girl. Cleo is originally from New London and proud of it. Capable.

DOROTHY REICH, Homecoming Queen, and the girl who brought the erring Woods back into the chapter. Not so adept in other politics.

THIRD ROW

ALICE JEAN BOTTS, a main reason for Ina Mannat coming to school. Alice Jean prefers the flaming youth, too, and is not bashful about it. We wonder why, as she is usually so retiring.

MOZELLE ASHBY, the Muscatine pledge is next. Mozelle has never done anything without "aunty" except date Pete.

INA MANNAT has many thoughts of State Teacher's College. We hope Ina doesn't decide to leave us now.

LUCILLE TOMLIN, sent by a Zeta from Illinois. Lucille is majoring in music, and it keeps her busy practicing.

Because of the high water at Wapello, Merry Beth Black and Jean McCullough were unable to get here for the pictures. The Zeta's were awfully sorry. Several of the other girls were not there for the picture either.

The Street of Good Cheer

There is a Street of Good Cheer.

It is not marked out in any city plan; it is not merely a thoroughfare from one place to another.

It is not a busy artery of commerce where man and beast, by sweat of brow, toil their heavy burdens to the market-place.

It is not a boulevard where the pleasure-mad recklessly rush along in pursuit of vanishing rainbows.

It is not an exclusive avenue, only to be coursed by the rich and powerful.
It is not a winding road of deceit and disillusionment which leads only to misery and despair.

It is, instead, a broad and open highway which bids cheery welcome to all mankind. It leads far away from the humdrum cares of daily life.

It gladly receives the traveller, regardless of youth or age, power or poverty, position or obscurity, and leads him on to fairy heights where the bitter world of reality is dispelled; where he may become an Alexander of conquest and win the heart of the story-book princess.

The bright lights of welcome are never dimmed upon this Street; it is never barricaded against the hungry heart of humanity, yearning for inspiration and contentment.

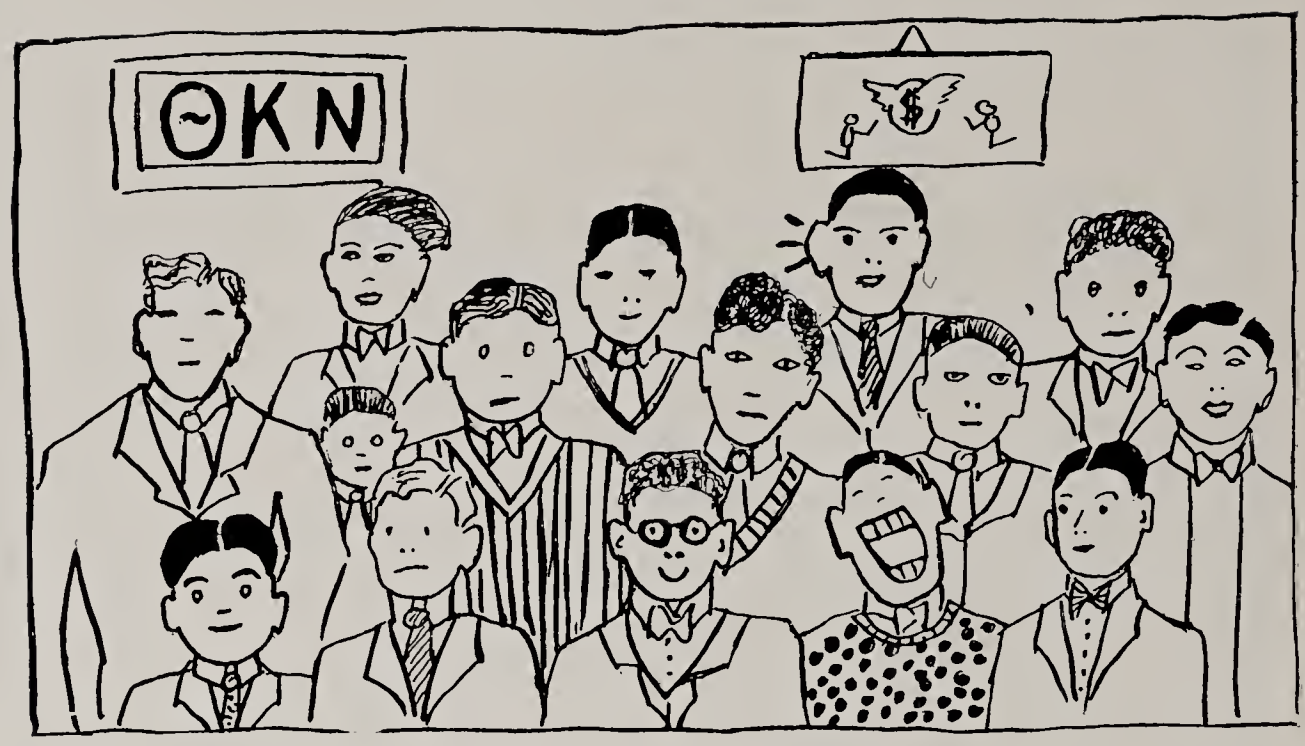

The portals of this Street are always ajar to bid a cordial greeting of good cheer to all who would travel its way.

It is, indeed, the Street of Good Cheer, this highway whose waysides are banked with those havens of happiness—the Motion Picture Theater.

—Martin J. Quigley.

TEMPLE THEATRE

THETA KAPPA NU

BOTTOM ROW

JACK MOLINE, the happy-go-lucky boy of the Theta Nu's. If he ever got blue, the event would be important enough to rate Campus Lab.

RED SCRANTON, a married man, a father, and a minister. 'Nuff said!

J. GLENN STRIEBY, the Theta bid for the scholarship cup. He believes in campus activities such as band, scholarship, and Blue Key.

LITTLE BILL CARRUTHERS, who just happened to be talking as the camera went off.

HAYDEN WILLIAMS, Theta entrant in the beauty contest (if they had one). To prove that brains and beauty can go hand in hand, Williams reasons logically that even the fraternity cannot lift the face of prospective pledges.

SECOND ROW

STRAH, the self-satisfied guy who is just a little put out because he can't stand by his old partner, Looie, in the picture.

LOWE, who is a pledge and has to stand back. He was the unlucky guy the cameraman put in Looie's place.

O. LOPER, who shows plainly that he is not a little put out because the cameraman takes so much time that he (Mike) could put to a much better advantage.

ALFRED WIEST, who decided not to go to Annapolis. Someone told him there weren't any girls in school there.

MASDEN, who is trying his best to take a mannish picture by looking "hard."

SUTHPEN, who just has to giggle, even if he can't stand by Strah or go over to Ft. Madison this week-end. Looie is an optimist.

THIRD ROW

MUNGER, the musical talent of the fraternity. He plays in the band and glee club.

TACKENBURG, who does hope all the folks at Yarmouth will see him—even if he is in the back row.

ART MORROW smiles to hide his worries. He is still bothered about that ear that still swells.

CLIFFORD LEE, who zealously guards every nickel of the fraternity's money, and who more zealously guards every cent of Lee's money.

BOTTOM ROW

Doris Richardson, one of the entries in the beauty contest. Doris placed second.
Ethel Johnson, the athletic girl who will own her own Ford after the next payment.
Esther Franks, the Pi Phi wonder. Esther is the Pi Phi bid for a Theta pin.
Louise Weibley, president of the heavenly group.
Helen Holland, a little sister had no choice. Helen's main interests are in high school yet.

SECOND ROW

Bernice Seaver of New York. Her father is a smart man, and a professor.
June Wheaton, who would love to cut all of her hair off, but Jimmy just hates boy hair cuts. What shall she do? (June will do as the boy friend wishes, as usual.)
Elizabeth Rogers, who, at last, is teaching Pete Parks all he should know about botany and other subjects.
Grace Wells has red hair, and she knows how to comb it. She is just another of the girls who decided she wants to go to heaven when she dies.
Frances White, who can cook cocoa and make Iota Phi. Frances is truly an unusual girl.
Katherine Wahl does so enjoy those walks down town after lunch, as she goes right past the Sig Ep House.

THIRD ROW

Dorothy Lovitt, who needed a change of environment, so came here. She is thinking of writing a book on "The Ways of Men."
Guinevere Wagner of Des Moines, a sophomore, and another promising pledge.
Helen Crane, winner of the beauty contest. Helen also has a Phi Delt cinched. What more could she ask than to finally go to heaven?
Wanneta Wick, the girl with the natural permanent. We were speaking of her hair, but she also has a permanent admirer in the form of next year's football captain who wears the sword and shield.
Lois Lockhart is one of the reasons for the existence of small towns. Although Lois has never seen a street car, her I. Q. is such that she is smart enough to keep it to herself. A clever girl.

MIDWEST LUMBER COMPANY

THE BEST OF EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING

MELVIN TALBOTT, Mgr.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

We are glad the camera man was able to catch so many of the literary boys smiling. It proves that happiness and hard work go hand in hand.

In this row (from left to right), we see the smiling face of JACK THOMAS. He hasn't a care in the world, for he's got a girl now.

Next is THEODORE JOHNSON who has a reputation in more than one activity on the campus, including tennis and campustry.

RICHARD KALLENBERG is one of the reasons the boys could have the shiny cup in the picture.

DENIS T. JONES, editor of the Iowa Wesleyan News, not as he looks of course, but as he thinks he looks when he gets his moustache quite grown out (at the end of two or three days).

CLINTON WOODS, who has tried them all, but has returned to the Zeta circle at last, is looking cheerful despite his lack of sleep. (He had a date last night, and didn't get home until eleven.)

Next, MR. ROLLIN POOLER appears. He asks us to explain that although he knows the girls will be disappointed not to have his face in the picture, he would rather have his beloved violin show, as it is his life anyway, no matter what the Phi Mus think.

SECOND ROW

JIGGERS ZILLMER, basketball captain.

RED HALLOWELL, one of the matrimonial candidates.

Next, we see the smiling face of HUGH HILTON who is relieved that the brothers took him in with his low grades. Hugh has resolved to do better next semester, however, and has set at least 13 hours of "D" as his goal.

ART SCHWIEBERT, the cut up, has put on a pair of glasses in hopes that no one will recognize him.

MUSGRAVE, who interests are in southern Illinois and Missouri, thinks he wields a mean raquet.

THIRD ROW

HAP MILLER is religiously reprimanding Mearle Woods and De Vere Peterson who are fighting over Mearle's tea set that he got for Christmas. Hap is proving his point by quoting a few verses of scripture.

SAM EWART had to hurry to get here in time for the picture. He wanted to wear his Wesleyan sweater he got in football, but the boys made him go clear home for his coat.

As all the other members of the club (including Jim Smith, who hasn't broken his pledge yet) were on important dates that couldn't be broken, it was the brainy suggestion of one of the literary boys to fill up space with the scholarship cup—while they yet can.

We Hardly Know What to Say in This Space—

Probably we should talk about coal and feed, and the other things we have to sell, but we honestly think you would not stop to read what we'd say, anyway.

What interests you most in this annual is the material about your school year—the pictures, the jokes, and the stories. And, while we don't deny that we'd like awfully well to sell you something, we're not going to bother you with any sales talk here.

The fact that you're reading this annual indicates that you are interested in Iowa Wesleyan. So are we! We think it's a great thing for the community.

We enjoy having you college people here—like to have you speak to us on the street. We enjoy your games, your entertainments and your concerts.

"That's all!"

PHI MU

FIRST ROW

ALICE BECKMAN, who has her hair marcelled since she has a school. Alice is the reason the triangle boys prefer Phi Mus.

HELEN JOHNSONS also has a school and had her hair marcelled for the picture. Caustic.

LOUISE STREIBY of Chicago. Louise has a few freckles and doesn't mind them a bit, even if she is a girl.

RUTH FREYERMUTH, one of the W. A. A. girls. She is planning to secure her letter sweater by hiking to Denver this summer.

ORLEAN WELLONS is the name of the youngster next to Helen. She is not the Phi Mu mascot, she really belongs to that club. A very distinctive miss, a haircut even more so.

FEROL KLUM, who landed her Sig Ep heart while still a freshman. Most Phi Mus can't do that in four years (and keep the hearts), so Ferol is unsual.

SADIE RUGG, who has her own car and is strong for education except the books.

MARY SCRANTON, who won a beauty contest at West Chester once.

SECOND ROW

MARY LOVE FARNAM, who is proud of her red hair. Mary Love decided to be a dream girl, too.

HELEN MILLIGAN, May Queen, and sole possessor of a Theta Nu pin. Some of the sisters are working mighty hard to keep up with Helen, but the Thetas hang on to their pins almost as hard as the Phi Delts do.

WILMA LATHROP, who talked the cameraman into letting her stand by Helen. Luckily, Wilma had just finished a sentence as the camera went off.

NAOMI BREUER, who has found the location of Saunders school at last. Naomi likes to tease, but never does anything worse than change the cards in laundry cases.

LOIS BOWSER, who is glad that Morning Sun is on the way to Muscatine.

EDITH RABER, who aspires to imitate Gilda Gray. Anyway, she chews gum more vigorously than any chorine ever dared. Has been engaged, but swears never again.

ANNA MARY KIRCHER, guardian angel of the Wesleyan dream girls. When Kracker dreams of Wesleyan, she dreams of Phi Mu, Sig Ep, and Theta Nu.

THIRD ROW

GERTRUDE FRAZEY, whose haircut gives away the fact that she is from Missouri.

JESSIE LAUGER, who is the surpressed desire of many a man. Jessie is just a peach of a girl, jolly and gay. Her biggest failing is just being too nice to people.

ADELE GREEN, faithful treasurer and grade maker of the chapter, who is rather bothered at the ordeal of having to hurry to the photograph gallery.

MERCEDES BASCHE, the reason some of the old actives have grey hair. Mercedes is from Chicago, etc.

WILMA CORNICK is also learning of Denver, by degrees.

NINA MILLER, who isn't applying for schools. Nina has unlimited possibilities, if her line were more consistent, or less so. She sings well.

There wasn't room for the other Phi Mus, and when the girls drew straws, they drew the short one and had to stay off the picture.

FIRST ROW

DALE CARIS, who is bashful, but willing to learn. Dale avoids the co-eds, but when one of them seriously gets her eye on him, goodbye Dale.

TUFFY TURNER, who has his weakness in school now.

LESTER UFFLEMAN, next year's football captain and Lon Chaney II. Uffie is quite stable.

CHRIS WAGLER, who made himself smile for the picture. He has been solemn and grown up ever since his trip to Donnelson.

A. C. GERTH is the fifth chap whose face is the very image of peace and innocence. He really is blossoming out quite beautifully, as all he needed was that high school influence. His ambition is to be wild. A. C. helps in solving the chapter transportation problem.

HENRY BRADSHAW, who hails from Des Moines. Hank is like the proverbial sailor.

SECOND ROW

PAUL PHELPS, who has seen better days when there was more material around. Paul does wish those Pi Phis wouldn't razz him when he has his annual Phi Mu date. He thinks the Pi Phis think the Phi Mus think they can get him.

MARK ALDRIDGE, who is extremely eligible.

MAURIE, who feels the sun rising and setting in the Needham family. A shark in shallow water. Notice how Maurice is starting to push himself into the front row. Too bad the picture snapped before he reached his position.

LELAND MCCOSH, who is little but mighty, so it seems. He finally achieved his ambition of acquiring a Phi Delt pin. Has dated Orlean and Peg, so he must rate, but it is hard to tell.

MAHLON GOETZMAN, who can look innocent without half trying. Has somewhat overcome his social rating complex.

THIRD ROW

BILL TURNER, whose moustache took an awfully poor picture. Bill is really not so clever and sophisticated as Esther Franks gives him credit for being.

JIM GRAY, who is a silent fire-cracker, wrapped up in town material. Also an invaluable aid in solving the bus situation for the brothers.

ELMER GOTTSCHALG, the Phi Delt prexy, who has had a rather difficult year keeping his boys together. His motto is "Call 'em late, an' snip 'em cold."

BRUCE ROHDE looks the picture of innocence, but it is merely one of contentment.

MARK CARNAHAN, a product of Mt. Pleasant. Has the reputation of "The Glorious Apollo," but reputation only.

DICK LEE, who is the exceptional and remarkable Phi Delt. A Ben Hur of Wesleyan! Dick is a wonderful manager though, especially when it comes to dances. His ambition is to learn how to smoke.

The other brothers, including Ike White, couldn't take time off to come for the picture. Believe it or not, they were studying, as they are sincere in their effort to get the long-lost scholarship cup.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Margaret Bell, who has red hair, and is a P. K. (Professor's kid, or poor kid).

Ida Jennie Collins, who by her fall rush, managed to get the chapter in society this year. She placed in the beauty contest.

Margaret Rommel, who is president of the group "above the rest". Margaret keeps the quills scratching for that scholarship cup. She is terribly interested in the navy just now.

Mary Crane, who has only two worries in the world—her curly hair and Sam.

Next we see Megan Rhys, an Alpha "little Sister". Megan's worries are of a theological nature at present. The Sig Ep theologians have worried more than Megan during the past year.

Maxine Fullmer, who stayed home the first semester to earn and save money to come see John on the week end.

Mid Warren, who behaves as an engaged girl should. Secondly, she refused to be entered in any more beauty or May Queen contests.

SECOND ROW

Margaret Reckmeyer, who came all the way from Nebraska to be an Alpha Xi. Her solemn look is caused by habitual thoughts of being accused of writing Campus Lab.

Verla Rambo, whose beau is only a rainbow sometimes. Vera could rate if she would get over high school ideas. She seems to enjoy being a martyr. Poor kid.

Marjorie Baumgarten, who ranked second in her high school class of twelve. Marjorie will undoubtedly make Iota Phi. Lucille Beckman and Frances White extend sympathy.

Louise Gottschalg, who has a Phi Delt brother. Louise has "it" in big quantities, but lacks the encouragement of the sisters to get over.

Louise Hall, who didn't get to wash her hair just before the picture was taken, and the photograph doesn't do Louise justice, for she looks as frightened in the picture as she does in Buscemi's class.

Other members of this exclusive group were officially detained and so do not appear in this picture.

And your rewards are few;
Remember that the mighty oak
Was once a nut like you.

A leaf in the shade will bend to the sun,

A bird on a bough will sing a song,
A bell in a church will ring ding dong;
So given a night, a girl, and the moon,
What in the world can you do but spoon?

A farmer and a fair damsel from the city were going round the farm together, and the farmer was rapidly falling beneath the spell of the town maiden's eyes.

"Now, that's a pretty scene," he said, pausing beside the fence of a paddock in which a cow and a calf were rubbing noses together. "The sight of it makes me want to do the same."

"Well, go on," said the girl placidly, "it's your cow."

A man was seen in front of the insane asylum dangling a piece of string with a stick attached to it. He was dangling it over a flower-bed when Clifford Lee approached. Cliff, wishing to be affable, asked:

"How many have you caught?"

"You're the ninth one," replied the crazy man.

I looked through a knot-hole in the barbed wire fence and saw footsteps approaching me on horseback. I ran up to the second story of a vacant lot, where I found a bald-headed man sitting in a corner. I pulled his hair and he yelled in a soft whisper, "Don't look at me in that tone of voice." Hearing an awful commotion in the next room, I looked through the closed door and saw a sewing machine running around without a stitch on.

Dennis J.: "Girls of today are not willing to get married."
"Mid" W.: "Maybe that's because it is you who are asking them."

Lissen: "Marie was taken home in a hurry from the banquet last night."
Hurja: "What was it—acute indigestion?"
Lissen: "No—a cute salesman from Pittsburgh."

"I'll give Reggie credit for getting me a nice engagement ring.
I understand that's what the jeweler did too."

"They never walk back when I take 'em out," brags the local undertaker.

"Lay off the rice pudding," said the old boarder to the new boarder; "There was a wedding next door yesterday."

The only thing a girl can do about an unattractive knee these days is to grin and bare it.

Here's to the blonde—we love her henna-way.

Reader: "How can I keep my daughter home? I used to do it by hiding her clothes. This doesn't work any more."

Editor: "Hide her lip-stick."

"These cigars I smoke are the best thing out."
"Yes, so I have noticed."

Protecting Health; Teaching Self-Respect

The school is only second to the home in forming the character and protecting the health of students.

Beauty and cleanliness in school plumbing appointments inculcate a self-respecting appreciation of the reticences of life while fostering health habits.

Piggly: "I hear they're going to import sparrows to kill worms. Don't you think sparrows are worse than worms?"

Wiggly: "I don't know; I never had sparrows."

"Sibyl said if any man kissed her without warning she would scream for her father."

"What did you do?"

"I warned her."

Applicant: "There's lots of push and go in me. I'd like to show you."

Boss: "Very well. That door opens outward. Try your push on that and then demonstrate your go on the outside."

Agent: "How do you like your electric washer?"

Lady: "Not so good. Every time I get in the thing those paddles knock me off my feet."

"Do you mind if I eat while you smoke?"

"Not if you will let me hear the orchestra."

Hannah: "Marriage is a matter of give and take."

Tuffy: "You said it! I give you all I can spare and you take the rest."

Rippy: "They say if there's anything in a man, travel will bring it out."

Dippy: "You said it! I found that out my first day on the ocean."

Fresh: "Sorry I can't stay down here and listen to the music, but I have to go to the twelve forty-five prayer meeting."
Wise Soph: "Who is she?"

And now we hear of a college boy who wouldn't define the last word in a vocabulary test on the grounds that the last word belonged to the women.

Horace Essex: "I'm a self-made man."
Don McCreary: "That's what comes of employing cheap labor."

Maurice Needham: "What is your greatest ambition, John?"
John McGavic: "To die a year sooner than you do."
Maurie: "What is the reason for that?"
John: "So I will be an active in hell when you get there."

We shall all now rise and sing that latest song hit, dedicated to the Saunders Service Company, entitled, "Although You Belong to Somebody Else,—To-night You Belong to Me."

And like the tyrants of old we've been mistreating our subjects.

"Let me take five dollars till I get a check from dad; will you?"
"Sure, here you are. When will your dad send the check?"
"I don't know; he's been dead for ten years."

When track season starts we always begin hearing racy stories.

Hiawatha learned of all the birds their secrets, but we doubt that even he could understand some of the modern chickens.

All things come to him who humps himself while he waits.

Modern education
Has progressed to such
That you can tell a college man;
But—you can't tell him much.

Co: "I'm dying for a smoke."
Ed: "So'm I. Wait till I dress and we'll go where someone can see us."

Some are dazzled by bootlegger's wares—some are even blinded.

Stage hand: "Shall I lower the curtain? One of the living statues has the hic-coughs."

A person with a guttural voice is not always so good at telling risque jokes.

"How did you get all that soot on your coat?"
"That ain't soot, that's dandruff."

"She takes after her father, doesn't she?"
"Certainly; all girls take after the men."

Scientists have just about proved that animals of the lower orders can't think. It seems to us that if this is true, no one can doubt the evolution theory.

The new and unusual—that sparkling reality which is known as the life of each school year—is caught and held forever within the pages of Bureau built annuals. The ability to assist in making permanent such delightful bits of class spontaneity rests in an organization of creative artists guided by some 17 years of College Annual work, which experience is the knowledge of balance and taste and the fitness of doing things well. In the finest year books of American Colleges the sincerity and genuineness of Bureau Engraving quality instantly impresses one. They are class records that will live forever.

NO ARGUMENT HERE—

"Rome Was Not Built in a Day"

Neither are the great institutions of today built with such rapidity.

For more than Fifty Years we have been building a School of Music. Our success is evident in the product of teachers and artists.

Next year will be even better. We invite enrollment on the merit of past results and future opportunity.

Strong courses offered in Music: Theory, History, Appreciation, Public School Music, Voice, Piano, Pipe Organ, Violin, and Wind Instruments.

We give a degree in Music.

At Last

The 1930 CROAKER is finished. Its publication this year was undertaken against unfavorable odds, but we felt that "this was the year." We have made many changes in this book, but our motto has been "a better book for a better Wesleyan"—and we sincerely hope that we have fulfilled that dream.

We wish to express our most cordial appreciation to our loyal staff, to the business men, the faculty, the alumni and the student body who have made possible the CROAKER BEAUTIFUL.

The success of the book is due in no small measure to John Fulton, staff photographer, who has worked unceasingly, and to F. J. Foehlinger, portrait photographer, for his excellent work and hearty coöperation at all occasions.

To the Economy Advertising Company, and especially to W. W. Mercer, who has been responsible for the printing and binding of this volume, we are grateful for the suggestions and coöperation received.

The Bureau of Engraving has done a commendable job. Roy Haldorson of this firm has given much time and effort in solving the many confronting problems.

We fully realize that some of our innovations may bring criticism and that we have made mistakes. We ask you to remember that this is a new task for us. Throughout the book we have striven for a balance and to present Wesleyan life as it really exists.

At all times, we have attempted to keep our theme consistent and to uphold the ideals of Friendship, Scholarship and Leadership.

The 1930 CROAKER is finished.

With heartiest good wishes,

FARRON E. TURNER, Editor-in-Chief.
HOWARD H. HILLS, Business Manager.
